

Accreditation, Licensing, and Complaint Contact Disclosures

The Jung Tao School of Classical Chinese Medicine is authorized to offer a graduate level diploma in acupuncture by the North Carolina Licensing Board and the Accreditation Commission for Acupuncture and Herbal Medicine (formally ACAOM).

The Jung Tao School is recognized by the IRS as a 501(c)3 non-profit educational institution (since 1999) and the North Carolina Secretary of State (since 2016) as a non-profit educational institution qualifying for charitable solicitation/donations.

<https://www.sosnc.gov/divisions/charities>

North Carolina Acupuncture Licensing Board (NCALB)

The Jung Tao School of Classical Chinese Medicine was the first acupuncture program approved under North Carolina Statutes by the NCALB. The Jung Tao School of Classical Chinese Medicine has continued to meet all the requirements of 21 NCAC 01.0501 since its initial approval in North Carolina as a school of acupuncture in 2006.

The North Carolina Acupuncture Licensing board is authorized, under Section .0500 - Schools and Colleges of Acupuncture 21 NCAC 01.0501 Qualifications for Establishing a School for Acupuncture in North Carolina, to authorize educational institutions to offer schools or colleges of acupuncture. For purposes of this Rule "Acupuncture Program" means training in acupuncture offered by a post-secondary academic institution on a continuing basis. In addition to and for the purposes of meeting the requirements of G.S. 90-454 (3), to be approved as a school or as a program of acupuncture within an institution, the institution must meet certain standards, including but not limited to, achieve candidacy and maintain accreditation as a postgraduate educational program of acupuncture with the National Accreditation Commission for Schools and Colleges of Acupuncture and Oriental (now Herbal) Medicine. For single purpose institutions, ACAOM (now named ACAHM) accredits both the acupuncture program a (graduate diploma or masters degree) and the institution.

Any questions regarding this authorization or student concerns or complaints can be forwarded to the administration of The Jung Tao School of Classical Chinese Medicine.

Contact for Jung Tao School Administration:

Phone: (828) 297-4181

registrar@jungtao.edu or president@jungtao.edu

207 Dale Adams Road

Sugar Grove, NC 28679

Or by contacting staff at the NCALB.

Contact for NCALB:

PO Box 10686, Raleigh NC 27605

Phone: 919-821-3008; Fax: 919-400-4273

www.ncalb.com

The Jung Tao School of Classical Chinese Medicine and its following program is accredited by the Accreditation Commission for Acupuncture and Herbal Medicine (ACAHM):

(1) Diploma in Acupuncture.

The program listed above is approved by ACAHM to offer courses via distance education.

ACAHM does not accredit any programs at the undergraduate/bachelor level. Accreditation status and notes may be viewed on the ACAHM Directory.

Any questions regarding the Jung Tao School of Classical Chinese Medicine ACAHM accreditation (program or institution) can be forward to ACAHM staff.

Contact for ACAHM:

ACAHM is recognized by the United States Department of Education as the specialized accreditation agency for institutions/programs preparing acupuncture practitioners. ACAHM is located at 500 Lake Street, Suite 204, Excelsior, Minnesota 55331; phone 952/212-2434; <https://acaahm.org>.

Public Disclosure Statement Effective as of 19 August 2026

SARA North Carolina:

SARANC is the North Carolina organization that collaborates in a multistate higher education compact on behalf of schools, colleges and universities in North Carolina that offer distance education outside of the state. The State Authorization Reciprocity Agreement (SARA) is an agreement among member states, districts and territories that establishes comparable national standards for interstate offering of post-secondary distance education courses and programs. SARA is overseen by a national council and administered by four regional higher education compacts. North Carolina has been accepted as a member state of SARA through the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB).

Complaints for SARANC can be submitted at this website link:

<https://www2.ncseaa.edu/SARANC/Complaint.aspx>

Contact SARANC:

NCSEAA c/o SARA North Carolina P.O. Box 41349 Raleigh, NC 27629

Toll free (855) 727-2162; fax (919) 248-6667

information@saranc.org

<https://www2.ncseaa.edu/SARANC/index.html>

The University North Carolina System

The State Authorization Unit of the University of North Carolina System Office serves as the official state entity to receive complaints concerning post-secondary institutions that are authorized to operate in North Carolina. If students are unable to resolve a complaint through the institution's grievance procedures, they can review the Student Complaint Policy and submit their complaint using the online complaint form.

For more information contact:
 North Carolina Post-Secondary Education Complaints
 223 S. West Street, Suite 1800
 Raleigh, NC 27603

National Certification Board for Acupuncture and Herbal Medicine (NCBAHM)

Graduates of Jung Tao School are eligible to take the examinations offered by the National Certification Board for Acupuncture and Herbal Medicine. The NCBAHM exam is utilized by most states and is required by many for licensure. At this time, there is no national standard for acupuncture licensure and prospective students should be knowledgeable about the state where they plan to practice and its licensing requirements. In cases where state licensure requires clinical hours in excess of ACAHM or JTS graduation requirements, students may take additional internship rotations to meet those requirements. At this time, The Jung Tao School of Classical Chinese Medicine acupuncture program is not California Acupuncture Board approved, and graduates are not eligible to sit for the California Acupuncture Licensing Exam.

The Jung Tao School works with its students to support all students to meet licensure requirements in their state of residence; however, program completion does not necessarily guarantee licensure in all states. Prospective students should always check with their state medical board to determine the most up to date eligibility requirements for licensure in acupuncture.

The Jung Tao School Acupuncture Program and State License Requirements

Acupuncture program meets licensure requirements in the following States and does not require NCBAHM exams or certification	Acupuncture program meets licensure requirements in the following States: students must pass NCBAHM foundations, acupuncture and biomedicine exams* but does not require NCBAHM certification	Acupuncture program meets licensure requirements in the following States and students must pass NCBAHM foundations, acupuncture and biomedicine exams and requires NCBAHM certification	Acupuncture program does not meet licensure requirements in the following States without addition of herbal program and passing NCBAHM herbal exam	Acupuncture program does not meet licensure requirements in the following States
Maryland	North Carolina, Washington, Montana, Wyoming, Wisconsin, Kentucky, West Virginia, New York, Rhode Island, Hawaii, Nebraska	Connecticut, Washington DC, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Maine, North Dakota, New Hampshire, Utah,	New Mexico, Texas, Kansas, Florida, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Massachusetts, Arkansas, Illinois, Vermont	California

		Alaska, Arizona, Idaho, Colorado, Oregon
	*Nebraska, Montana, Wisconsin, West Virginia, New York do not require biomedicine exam

This table is based on current information posted by the NCBAHM.

For updated information Contact the NCBAHM at:

1199 N. Fairfax St., Suite 220 | Alexandria, VA 22314

Phone: 888.381.1140 | info@ncbahm.org