SEXUAL, INTIMATE PARTNER VIOLENCE AND STALKING

Sexually harassing conduct in particular includes sexual assault, intimate partner violence, stalking, as well as other unwelcome conduct such as requests for sexual favors, conversations containing sexual comments and unwelcome sexual advances. Harassment includes verbal, physical and visual conduct that creates an intimidating, offensive or hostile working environment or that interferes with work performance.

REPORTING

Any incident of harassment, including work related harassment by an school personnel or any other person, should be reported promptly to the Title IX Coordinator, who is responsible for investigating the matter. Supervisors who receive complaints or who observe harassing conduct should inform the Title IX Coordinator immediately. Jung Tao School emphasizes that an employee is not required to complain first to their supervisor if that supervisor is the individual who is harassing the employee.

If a student comes to you with a report of sexual violence, harassment or stalking, this complainant must be informed immediately that you are not able to promise confidentiality. You, as a responsible employee, are required by school policy to report this to the Title IX Coordinator. If the situation warrants, you can assist the complainant with obtaining medical assistance or assessing other off campus resources. You can encourage the complainant to report the incident to law enforcement but they are not required to. Do not engage the accused, also referred to as the respondent as the investigation is up to the Title IX Coordinator.

It is a good practice to review the school policies in Appendix 25 of the student manual for specifics and updates.

If you as a responsible employee witness or hear of an incident of sexual assault, harassment or stalking, or if you are informed by someone else of a possible incidence, you must report this to the Title IX Coordinator immediately.

Retaliation

Jung Tao School will not tolerate retaliation in any form against any student, staff, faculty or clinic supervisor, who files an allegation, serves as a witness, assists a complainant or respondent, or participates in an investigation of discrimination or harassment.

Jung Tao School's policy as well as state and federal law prohibit retaliation against complainants for reporting harassment, discrimination or sexual violence or for participating in an investigation.

Retaliation is a violation that can subject the malfeasant to sanctions apart from the merits of the allegation.

Allegations about retaliation should be directed to the Title IX Coordinator.

EDUCATION

DEFINITIONS

Sexual Assault is any kind of nonconsensual sexual contact, including rape, groping, or any other nonconsensual sexual touching. –

Intimate Partner Violence (IPV) occurs when a current or former intimate partner uses or threatens physical or sexual violence. IPV also may take the form of a pattern of behavior that seeks to establish power and control by causing fear of physical or sexual violence. Stalking may also constitute IPV.

Sexual Harassment consists of nonconsensual sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature on or off campus, when: (1) submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a condition of an individual's employment or academic standing; or (2) submission to or rejection of such conduct is used as the basis for employment decisions or for academic evaluation, grades, or advancement; or (3) such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work or academic performance or creating an intimidating or hostile academic or work environment. Sexual harassment may be found in a single episode, as well as in persistent behavior. Both men and women are protected from sexual harassment, and sexual harassment is prohibited regardless of the sex of the harasser.

Stalking is repeated or obsessive unwanted attention directed toward an individual or group that is likely to cause alarm, fear, or substantial emotional distress. Stalking may take many forms, including following, lying in wait, monitoring, and pursuing contact. Stalking may occur in person or through a medium of communication, such as letters, e-mail, text messages, or telephone calls. In some circumstances, two instances of such behavior may be sufficient to constitute stalking.

Complainant – A person who asserts that he or she has been subjected to sexual misconduct or relationship violence.

Respondent – A person who is reported to have committed sexual misconduct or relationship violence.
